Setting up a business presence (a legal-entity) in Japan

A foreign company can set up a business presence in Japan in any one of the following 4(four) formats:

- Representative Office
- Branch Office
- Subsidiary Company (Kabushiki-Kaisha [KK] or Godo-Kaisha [GK])
- Limited Liability Partnership (LLP)

However to engage in commercial business activities in Japan the practical option is either to establish a "branch office" or a "local subsidiary company" as a legal entity.

Representative Office:

A "Representative office" is generally established for carrying out market research, purchasing, advertising and liaison activities on behalf of parent co. It does not allow to conduct commercial business activities in Japan and therefore no registration is required at the legal affairs bureau nor can be subjected to corporate tax under Japanese tax laws, except banking, security or similar businesses.

Branch Office

The simplest method for a foreign company to establish a legal entity for commercial business operations in Japan is to set up a Branch Office. In terms of the range of business activities allowed, there are no basic differences between the branch office and domestic corporations. Taxed on branch office income only and the rate is the same as local co. For registration there is no requirement to establish statutory officers/management body, it only needs a local physical address (not a PO Box) & a Representative in Japan (must be a "Resident of Japan"). In general, transfer of operational funds between the branch and its head office can be made without restrictions and is not subject to withholding tax. A Branch can register max. of 2 (two) "Representative in Japan" but one must be a "Resident of Japan" and in addition a director/member of the parent co. with his / her personal overseas resident address.

Subsidiary Company

A foreign company willing to establish a subsidiary company may choose from the followings:

(a) Kabushiki-Kaisha [K.K. Co.] (Joint-stock corporation) {Kabushiki Joto Seigen Kaisha – (If No Committee is Established)}

(b) Godo-Kaisha [G.K. Co.] Limited Liability Company (LLC) or similar entity stipulated by Japan's Companies Act.

There are also formats such as unlimited partnerships (Gomei-Kaisha) and limited partnerships (Goshi-Kaisha) under the Companies Act, but they are rarely chosen in practice because equity participants burden unlimited rather than a limited liability.

A subsidiary company is a separate legal entity from the promoter's foreign parent company; therefore, the foreign company will bear the liability of an equity participant stipulated by law for all debts and credits generated by the subsidiary company's activities.

For incorporation of either a KK Co. or GK Co., the minimum common criteria is as follows:

- A "Japan physical address" for the co.'s "Registered Office Address" (physical address and not a P.O. Box)

Note: Effective Mar'2015 Japanese govt has allowed foreign companies to register a local subsidiary co in Japan without a "Resident of Japan."

Paid-up Capital procedure: Any of the following options are available.

1) The investor shareholder having a bank account with a branch of a Japanese bank in the home country;
2) The investor shareholder is temporarily using a bank account of a "Resident of Japan." However, in this case, the below-mentioned steps need to be followed:
   - Japan resident's personal bank account is used for paid-up capital/equity procedures for registration purposes.
   - Once the registration is completed, the resident's token share/equity can be transferred back to the overseas investor through an internal company document duly endorsed by both parties.
   - However, in the "Notification to Bank of Japan," the share/equity participation at the time of registration shall be reflected and cannot be amended post-registration.
   - The foreign investor's reflection of 100% investment shall reflect on the company tax-return document once the first company tax return is filed to the tax authorities.

The features of KK Co. and GK Co. at a glance:

- Capital: 1(one) yen or more. [Establishment with zero yen capital is theoretically possible but in practice, to incorporate without paying capital is impossible.]
- Investors: 1(one) or more
- Corporation as an Investor: Possible (the process of registration is lengthy)
- Liability of Investors: Limited to the amount of investment/equity participation.
- Directors / Executive officers: 1(one) or more (In case of a GK. Co. in principle, all members are executive officers, but maybe stipulated otherwise in "Articles of Association")
- Legally stipulated term of office of Directors / Executive officers: In KK (with capital less than 500 million & without committee [Kabushiki Joto Seigen Kaisha]) 2 years in principle & extendable up to 10 years. In the case of GK no legally stipulated term.
- Transfer of share / equity: In the case of KK Co., it can be transferred freely in principle unless it is stipulated in "Articles of Association" that it requires the board of directors' approval. In the case of a GK Co., unanimous approval of members (equity holders) is required.
- Resident in Japan: Effective Mar'15 Japanese govt has allowed foreign co. to register a KK or GK without a resident in Japan. However, for completing the procedure of paid-up capital/equity, a resident is required temporarily.
- Registered Office: A local address in Japan is required. (physical address and not a P.O. Box)
- Co. Secretary: Not required
- Yearly Auditing of accounts: Not mandatory

Limited Liability Partnership (LLP)

This format also allows doing business by using a Yugen Sekinin Jigyo Kumiai. It is considered a Japanese version of a limited liability partnership (LLP). It is not a corporation, but a partnership formed only by the equity participants, who have limited liability. Taxes are levied on profits allocated to equity participants but no tax on LLP. The format is normally used for carrying out a time-bound project. One partner must be a local "Resident of Japan" (either a Japanese national or a foreign national, but in the case of a foreign national, the person must have an appropriate residence status as per immigration law).

Option regarding the formation of a legal business entity in Japan for ongoing commercial activities:

The option is either to establish a "Branch Office" or a local "Subsidiary Company (Kabushiki-Kaisha or Godo-Kaisha)."

Some Basic differences between Opening a Branch Office and Establishing a Domestic Corporation in Japan

In terms of the range of business activities allowed, there are no basic differences between the branch office and domestic corporation. But regardless of the firm being foreign or not, some companies, depending on the category of business, are required to secure authorization of the supervisory ministries at the time of founding after the registration.

A Branch office is not regarded as an independent legal entity, but as acting on the basis of decisions and instructions from the parent company (head office) to provide services and carry out business activities, including purchasing, importing, and sales, etc. In transactions with other businesses, the branch office concludes contracts as the representative of its parent company (head office).

Some major differences between a branch office and A domestic Japanese corporation

Either a branch office or a domestic corporation may enter into business activities by its own name as an entity. Tax rates are also fundamentally the same for a branch office and a domestic corporation. However, the major differences are in the following areas:

1) A new management body need not be set up for a branch office and there is no detailed statutory requirement for the management of a branch office. While a domestic corporation such as K.K. co. must have statutory officers or a management body such as directors, auditors, the board of directors meetings and shareholders meetings, a branch does not require to do so but only needs a Representative in Japan.

2) Dividends paid by a domestic corporation to a foreign shareholder are subject to withholding tax, while remittance of branch profits after tax to its head office is not subject to withholding tax.

3) Expenses incurred by the head office for its branch may be allocated to its branch if it is spent for branch purpose.

4) Interest or royalty paid by the head office for activities of its branch, may be deducted by its branch although such interest or royalty is subject to withholding tax.

5) Local "Resident in Japan": Branch must have a "local resident in Japan" out of the maximum of 2 (two) "Representative in Japan" that is allowed for registration. However, in the case of a local "subsidiary co." under the law effective Mar'2015, it is no more mandatory to have "a local resident director" in the case of K.K. co. & "Member / Executive Officer" in case of G.K. co.
